

The Sports Bonus

This bonus contains 22 pictures of some of the most famous moments in sports history over the past half-century. Even if you've never heard of the infield fly rule or you don't know an eligible receiver from special teams, you'll recognize some of the athletes depicted below. And even if you regularly beat the Schwab, you'll have difficulty with a few of the questions below.

There are three questions for each picture. The first will ask you to identify the Event. For this, we want the year, and the name of the tournament/playoff series as well as the round (if it's an exhibition match or taking place during the regular season, note that instead). Alternately, if the picture is depicting something with a well-known nickname, you can put that down instead of all the other details (hint: two of the pictures below have the same nickname). The second question will usually ask you to name the athletes depicted, and the third will be some other piece of trivia about those players or the event itself.

Good luck. And may the Sports be with you.

(And sorry, we don't have the picture of the guy running through the outfield wall. That was pretty funny, though.)
