TRIVIA 72, MAY 2002

My favorite-ever Williams Trivia song was a cover version of the Pocahontas show-stopper “Colors of the Wind,” as sung by the female counterparts of Alvin and the Chipmunks. It was like being savagely beaten with cotton candy.

The blame for introducing “Horrible Song Quartets” is mine. They’re four consecutive songs that should not be. Can you imagine my fatherly pride when one of the younger teams replayed “I’m Sad the Goat Just Died Today”?
