Section I—SNL Cast Members on Film

Many SNL cast members have gone on to successful film careers. Many have also, unsurprisingly, worked together in their movies. In this section, we're going to list movies whose credited casts contain multiple former SNL regular or featured players. All you need to do is name one of them per movie. You won't get extra credit for more than one, and we'll only accept the first one you list.

But here's the catch: you can only use each answer once. In other words, if you were to put "Bill Murray" for Stripes, you couldn't also use him for The Life Aquatic With Steve Zissou.

To be clear:

- a) Anyone who has ever been named as a regular or featured repertory player in the opening credits—even for a single episode—is fair game. However, frequent hosts or guests who were never part of the credited cast—even if they've appeared on a dozen or more episodes—will not be counted as correct answers.
- b) Only credited film roles count.

We do promise that there are several ways to answer every question without repeating anyone. Good luck.

1. 1941 (1979)

Section II—SNL Cast Members on TV

Many SNL cast members, though, have had more success bouncing across the small screen than starring on the big one. Given a description of three characters they've played as either a regular or recurring guest on a TV show, name the actor. Follow the same rules as above regarding who counts as an SNL cast alum, though you're now welcome to reuse answers from Section I.

36. A quack doctor; the son of a mad scientist and father of his protégé; the comptroller of a spy agency

37. A Manhattan editor; the owner of a gym; the first female president

38. The co-owner of a lesbian-oriented bookstore; the lead singer of the Blue Jean Committee; a young Robert Durst

39. An old sea captain; a washed-up actor (whom you might remember from such films as....); a cantankerous radio host

40. An obnoxious, lecherous assistant at a fashion magazine; an obnoxious, lecherous teacher; an obnoxious, lecherous manager at a real estate firm

41. A divorcée cohabiting with a childhood friend; a supercilious university professor; the secretary of a secret librarian society

42. A painfully uncool mega-corporation employee; a home security system; one of the few survivors of a civilization-destroying virus

44. A backwoods Missourian working as an interior designer; the wife of a Qwik-E Mart proprietor; a boozed-out, white trash showbiz mom

Section III—SNL Alumni on Other Sketch Programs

Of course, some SNL cast members' talents really are ideal for the sketch TV lifestyle, meaning that their most effective work off the show has come on comedy programs with similar missions to SNL. Who are the only people to have been part of the regular on-air cast on both Saturday Night Live and...

45. ...SCTV?

46. ...In Living Color [either of two answers]?

47. ...The Kids in the Hall?

48. ...MADTV?

49. ...The Daily Show with Jon Stewart [either of two answers]?

Section IV—The People Who Actually Make the Show Run

SNL also launched the careers of many people who primarily worked off-stage. Given the description their career away from the show, name the mostly-behind-the-scenes SNL alum who...

50. ...is a sitting Congressperson?

51. ...has the highest net worth of any non-cast former writer, due to syndication royalties?

52. ...was nominated for an Outstanding Actor (Drama) Emmy last year for his role in a highly-acclaimed cable series (which he originated in a different highly-acclaimed cable series)?

53. ...was nominated last year for a Best Director Oscar?

55. ...has appeared on television nightly since 1993, except during a time-slot change in 2009 and a network change in 2010?

Part II—Recurring Bits from the Show

Section I—Catchphrases

64-78. Many of SNL's most famous characters are defined by recurring(-to-the-point-of-monotony) catchphrases. The first fifteen clips of the attached audio section feature SNL character catchphrases. Some are very famous, and some are a little more challenging. For each one, name either the character or the sketch's name, as well as the performer saying the catchphrase. If multiple performers use the catchphrase, we'll accept any of them.

Section II—Songs

79-93. SNL's musical numbers are as distinctive an element of the show as any sketch. The next fifteen clips come from songs that were first performed on SNL. Identify the name of the song and the main cast-members and/or special guests performing it.

Section III—Impersonations

SNL's bread and butter has always been celebrity impersonation. The best evidence that an impersonation has struck a cultural chord is that the person being impersonated agrees to appear on the show alongside his or her impersonator. Name the impersonator(s) and impersonatee whose faces have been removed from the pictures below.
